(ANSA) - Rome, October 10 - Some 7,400 Italian secondary-school students spent some time (three months, six months or the full year) in schools abroad in 2015-2016, a report by Intercultura said Monday.

The number has risen by 111% since 2009, it said.

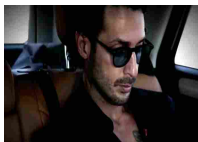

Geographically, the parts of Italy that saw more students going to foreign schools were the centre and the north-west, the report said.

The favourite destination was the United States.
